

Thailand has simplified the rules for entering the country from June 1

From June 1, 2022, quarantine was lifted for all travelers arriving in the country, regardless of vaccination status

The Thai Ministry of Foreign Affairs published a memo on the new procedure for the entry of foreigners into the kingdom from June 1, 2022. In accordance with the new rules, quarantine has been lifted for everyone, not just vaccinated travelers.

To enter Thailand, you must obtain permission by uploading copies of the documents listed below on the online platform.

Fully vaccinated against coronavirus must present:

- international passport
- vaccination certificate (in English)
- health insurance certificate with a minimum coverage of $10,000
- visa if required

In addition to the documents listed, unvaccinated or incompletely vaccinated tourists must present a negative PCR test result (valid for 72 hours prior to travel).

Fully vaccinated against coronavirus are foreign citizens who are vaccinated with two doses of these drugs (BioNTech / Pfizer, Moderna, AstraZeneca, Sinovac, Covilo, Sputnik V, Covaxin, Novavax, Medigen) no later than 14 days before the trip. As an exception to the list includes one-component Janssen. Citizens vaccinated with Sputnik Light are not considered fully vaccinated against coronavirus.

As noted in the Consulate General, citizens who have been ill with coronavirus and vaccinated with at least one dose of a drug against coronavirus are considered fully vaccinated if they have a medical certificate of the disease.
